

Bioelettronica EMG with cable connected

The electromyograph from Bioelettronica can register the muscle activity with the aid of changes in potential between 2 surface electrodes. The device transfers the data from the electrodes via a cable connection to the station.

