

LPM System (wireless inmotio Trac)

The local position measurement system is a position data acquisition system which can be used for different purposes, among other things for match analysis. It is suitable for mobile or stationary applications, with a measuring radius of 1000m and precise centimeter-exact tracking which records up to 1000 data per second. You can also record acceleration, heart rate, distance traveled or game behavior.

